BANKING IN THE ARAB GULF

THE MONEY AND BANKING SERIES

General Editor: John R. Presley

Domestic and international finance is currently undergoing a major revolution. The forces of competition and technology are combining to create significant changes in the manner in which financial markets operate. This new series of books, published by Macmillan in association with the Loughborough University Banking Centre (LUBC), addresses the key issues involved in the changes taking place at both the national and international level. It not only gives a detailed account of the changes in progress, but analyses the major implications of these changes for the operations of banks and other financial institutions. As such it represents an invaluable source of information for those involved in the financial services sector around the world.

LUBC opened in 1985 as a research centre in banking and finance under the directorship of Professor John R. Presley, the general editor of this series. Since then LUBC has established itself as a leading research and short-course centre with a much respected complement of staff. This series draws from a number of research projects being undertaken within LUBC.
